Uwe Kitzinger CBE (1928 - ) was a British academic and international civil servant with a huge range of interests. After serving from 1951 as economist to the Council of Europe in Strasbourg, in 1956 he was elected a Fellow of Nuffield College, Oxford, in 1976 Dean of INSEAD in Fontainebleau and in 1984 founding President of Templeton College, Oxford. He sat on the governing Councils of the Royal Institute of International Affairs, the European Movement, and Oxfam, and was founding Chair of the Committee on Atlantic Studies and of the Major Projects Association. There are files concerning his books, articles and lectures, his frequent BBC broadcasts and interviews, his travels abroad, his Visiting Professorships in the West Indies, at Paris and at Harvard, and his founding in 1962 of the Journal of Common Market Studies.;

Noel Salter (1929-1975) was a close friend of Uwe Kitzinger from their days together as Scholars of New College, Oxford, and then a colleague, first at the Council of Europe in Strasbourg (where Salter preceded him 1950-55) and, some twenty years later, again at the European Commission in Brussels (1973-75). A man of deep Christian convictions, he worked tirelessly until his early death for their common ideal of a united Europe and of its playing a positive economic and political role for the world at large. He served as Clerk Assistant of the Assembly of the Western European Union in Paris (1955-63) and then worked for the British Council of Churches (1963-68) and the Commonwealth Secretariat (1968-73) in London. Outside his civil service duties he and his wife Elizabeth urged fellow-Christians to social and political activism.

Both men were inspired by their horror of the war in which they had been just too young to fight. Both returned from the continent to work from inside Britain for Britain to join the European Community, and both joined the service of the European Commission after British accession. Comparison of their papers reveals a conscious complementarity in their campaigning styles. While Kitzinger, as a public intellectual, appealed to a broad intelligentsia, Salter, from his official positions, tended to target the key decision-makers of the time individually.

The fonds of 70 boxes was deposited by Uwe Kitzinger in the Historical Archives of the European Union in 2010. Composed as they are of the private papers of two individuals, the fonds treats them separately.

A list of books included in the transfer of this fonds to Florence and catalogued in the EUI library catalogue, is attached to the printed inventory.

Kitzinger, Uwe
12 April 1928
Nurembourg, Franconia [Germany]

Other form of name:
Kitzinger, Uwe W.
Kitzinger, Uwe CBE

Historical note:
Uwe Kitzinger, a refugee from Germany, arrived in Britain in July 1939 and became a British citizen by his father’s naturalisation in 1948. He was educated at Watford Grammar School 1940-46 and at Balliol and New College Oxford, where he was elected President of the Oxford Union in 1950 and graduated with a 1st class honours degree in Philosophy, Politics and Economics in 1951.

In 1951 Kitzinger was appointed the first British economist of the Council of Europe in Strasbourg, where he became Secretary of the Economic Committee. In 1956 he was elected a Fellow and in 1962 Investment Bursar of Nuffield College, Oxford, posts he held until 1976. He took various sabbaticals during his time at Nuffield: first in 1964/5 to the University of the West Indies as Visiting Professor of International Relations and consultant to the Rockefeller Foundation to advise on training diplomats and economists for the newly independent countries of the Caribbean; in 1969/70 to Harvard as Visiting Professor of Government taking over the seminar on European Politics from Henry Kissinger who had been called to the White House; then in 1970-73 as Visiting Professor at the University of Paris. During these years Kitzinger became a very public champion of British accession to the European Community and when Britain did join in January 1973 he was appointed political Counsellor to the first British Vice-President of the European Commission, Sir Christopher Soames, who carried the chief responsibility for the Community’s external relations.

In 1976 he was appointed Dean of the Management School INSEAD in Fontainebleau, and in 1983 became founding President of Templeton College Oxford. He returned to Harvard as Visiting Scholar from 1993 to 2003.

Uwe Kitzinger was active in various other spheres: in 1967-70 he founded and chaired the Committee on Atlantic Studies; from 1982 to 1987 he was founding Chairman of the Major Projects Association of (now 80) leading international finance and engineering companies engaged on macro-projects like the Channel tunnel; he served on the Council of the Royal Institute of International Affairs (Chatham House) 1973-84, the National Council of the European Movement 1974-76 and the Council of Oxfam 1983-91. He was on the advisory boards of various academic centres and a trustee of the European Foundation for Management Education, Brussels. Kitzinger was also a member of the British University Committee of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, the Fondation Jean Monnet in Lausanne and the Tufts Institute for Global Leadership. With his wife Sheila he founded “Lentils for Dubrovnik” in 1991, a charity to deliver essential supplies to refugees in Croatia. In 1998 he was elected President of the Federation Britannique des Alliances Françaises and now serves as Patron of Asylum Welcome and Chairman of GARIWO, a campaign for civil courage in the Balkans.

Sheila and Uwe Kitzinger have five daughters and live in Standlake Manor, Oxfordshire, since 1966.

January 1929 - 10 May 1975

Other form of name:
Salter, Noel Howard

Historical note:
Noël Salter (1929-1975) was educated at Taunton school and then at New College, Oxford, where he achieved a 1st class honours degree in Modern History. While a student he became founder President of the Oxford University United Europe Movement and acted as Secretary for European questions to R.W.G. Mackay M.P, then Chairman of the all-party group for European Unity in the House of Commons. He attended both the first Congress of the European Union of Federalists at Montreux and the first Congress of Europe at The Hague, where he voted in favour of the creation of the Council of Europe. In 1948 Salter became a member of the United Kingdom Council of the European Movement and 1949 - 1950 he was Secretary to the Movement’s Federalist Group. Straight from taking his degree in 1950 he joined the Council of Europe. Initially appointed Clerk to the Committee on Legal and Administrative Questions of the Consultative Assembly (which had drafted the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms) he went on to be in charge of the political secretariat of the Consultative Assembly as senior Clerk to the Committee on General Affairs. Among his tasks was drafting a revision of the Statute of the Council of Europe (the “Mackay Protocol”) and he worked closely with Uwe Kitzinger particularly in drafting a European Statute for the Saar.

In 1955 he left Strasbourg for Paris to become Head of the Office of the Clerk of the Assembly of Western European Union, Acting Clerk, and from 1956 Clerk Assistant (Assistant Secretary-General).

In 1963 he returned to Britain to work for the British Council of Churches, where he virtually created his job of International Affairs Secretary, and then in 1968 for the Commonwealth Secretariat in London. In 1973 he joined the European Commission in Brussels in Directorate-General VIII dealing with Developing Countries, where he once again worked with Uwe Kitzinger who was dealing with External Affairs. His time at the Commission was unfortunately short-lived as he died in May 1975, shortly before the national UK Referendum that confirmed Britain’s membership of the Community.

Salter was a man of deep Christian convictions, for whom the ecumenical Taizé community became a spiritual home. He met his wife Elizabeth when she was working at the World Council of Churches in 1955. Their joint commitment was to a united Europe and its service to the developing world. It was left to Elizabeth to carry the baton following her husband’s untimely death.

The Uwe Kitzinger files are of paramount interest for those who are studying Britain's relationship with the EEC during the period of negotiations between Great Britain and the Six on accession and the later dilemma of deciding whether to remain in the Community. Kitzinger's time working as advisor in the Cabinet of Sir Christopher Soames in the François-Xavier Ortoli Commission is also well documented in his fonds.

Kitzinger was a man with a huge range of interests and was attached to a variety of international organisations and associations such as the European Movement, the Council of Europe and the Committee on Atlantic Studies. Since his background was academic, there are a lot of documents concerning his time in Nuffield College as well as his times abroad as visiting professor. There are files also dealing with Kitzinger's writings and his work as publisher of the JCMS.

UWK-NS.B Noël Salter

The material reflecting the various steps in the career of Noël Salter is a must for those researching the history of European Integration from the Congress of Europe 1948, the Council of Europe 1950-, the WEU 1954-, the British Council of Churches: this was an important post - absolutely consistent with the rest of his career - for turning the Church towards European integration, involvement in the Commonwealth Secretariat and finally the European Commission from 1973-75.

Noel Salter (1929-1975) was a close friend of Uwe Kitzinger from their days together as Scholars of New College, Oxford, and then a colleague, first at the Council of Europe in Strasbourg (where Salter preceded him 1950-55) and, some twenty years later, again at the European Commission in Brussels (1973-75). A man of deep Christian convictions, he worked tirelessly until his early death for their common ideal of a united Europe and of its playing a positive economic and political role for the world at large. He served as Clerk Assistant of the Assembly of the Western European Union in Paris (1955-63) and then worked for the British Council of Churches (1963-68) and the Commonwealth Secretariat (1968-73) in London. Outside his civil service duties he and his wife Elizabeth urged fellow-Christians to social and political activism.
UWK-NS.B-1 Professional Life

During the period 1946 to 1963, Noël Salter as a European civil servant in various positions, took a particular interest in relations with the Commonwealth Countries and European relations with the Third World. This meant wide contact with the concerns and citizens of many Commonwealth countries with particular emphasis on Africa, and to a lesser extent, Asia.

From 1946 to 1950 Salter was a member of the European Movement, then in 1950 he was appointed to the Secretariat-General of the Council of Europe. He later joined the Western European Union a position he held from 1955 to 1963.
